A new course has been adopted, styled the Scientific Course, and the degree of Batchelor of Philosophy (B. P.) attached to it. It will occupy about three years, and will embrace all the studies of the regular course for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, with the exception of the ancient languages. This course will be specially adapted to those who wish to obtain what is called a practical education, as the mathematical and scientific studies will have greater prominence than usual, particularly in their application to the arts and business of life. Those who may wish to become practical surveyors, en-gineers, or agriculturists, will be enabled, with the advice of the faculty, to select their studies with special reference to those objects, and will receive special reference to those objects, and will receive the aid of lectures and illustrations. The preparatory department has been placed under careful and efficient management, in a building which has been handsomely fitted up for its eption. It has an able and experienced teacher and is under the general supervision of the faculty. It will thus afford the best advantages for laying the foundation of a thorough classical and mathematical education.

DROSPECTUS OF THE UNITED States Illustrated.—Under the title of the ted States Illustrated, has been commenced the publication of a great national work, of a very costly and magnificent description, for which the liberal patronage of the American public is confi-dently expected. It will appear in parts with such promptitude that two volumes will be completed before the close of the present year. These vol-ames will be issued simultaneously, one being ex-clusively devoted to eastern and the other to western subjects. Each part will contain four stee engravings, from original drawings by eminent artists, representing either some remarkable view from the splendid landscape scenery of the country, or some public edifice, whose architectural beauty or historical character entitles it to such commemoration. Ten parts will compose a vol-

The present volume of the western section will contain, among other illustrations, views of the grand and peculiar scenery of the Mississippi river, from its origin at Itasca Lake down to its mouth, below New Orleans. In a similar manner the volume of the eastern section will represent only such subjects from the sea-board States as re most striking and truly American.

But if excellence has thus been aimed at in the engravings, the literary department also will have every attention bestowed upon it. No expense has been spared to render the work in this respect also a national monument. Many of the best and popular writers of the country are engaged as regular contributors, and the editorial direction of the whole has been entrusted to the care of Mr. Charles A. Dana, whose name is a sufficient guarantee that the work will be one of solid merit, as well as of elegance and beauty. Each number will contain from 12 to 16 pages letter-press, print

With the last numbers each subscriber or pu With the last numbers each subscriber or pur-chaser of the two volumes, will receive to each section of the work an allegoric title page, executed in a high style of art, and as a premium, a magnificent steel engraving, 36 by 25 inches, represeating The Battle of Bunker Hill, from Trum-bull's great picture, whose superb execution ren-ders it a costly ornament, and whose subject will make it dear to every American.

In the anticipation of a vast number of subscribers, the price of the work will be put at the following rates, whose cheapness only the largest circulation can justify: single numbers, each 50 cents; single volume, S5; the two volumes, with the premium plate, $10. ECLECTIC MAGAZINE FOR '53.—The sphere and the utility of the ECLECTIC MAGAZINE have become too well defined to require explanation. Differing in aim from other magazines, and supplying a want which is widely and increasingly felt by a more educated and intelligent portion of the community, it fills a place which could be filled in no other method than by the principle of selection which it adopts. The great reviews and magazines of Great Britain and the Continent. hrough which the leading minds of the age are customed, almost exclusively, to express then selves, are too numerous to be reprinted, as well as too costly to be imported by the general reader. They contain, likewise, much, with their desirable articles, that has but a temporary or local interest and which is worth to the American reader neither the price nor time required to peruse it. To select from the whole field of journalism all that is really valuable, both the graver dissertations and discussions of the reviews, and the lighter and more versatile contents of the magazines, is the purwith numerous illustrations.

The best parts of all are thus secured, without the cost or incumbrance of underly is decidedly superior to any magazine of the the local or feeble parts of any. The main portion S of the Ect.ectic will continue to be composed of the great and eloquent articles of the reviews; while everything valuable or brilliant in all other periodical issues, particularly of Great Britain, will be carefully presented. A richer and more valuable aggregate will thus be furnished than the contents of any single periodical could afford. Embellishments of the highest order of subject Empensaments of the nignest order of subject and engraving will occupy each number. The saving effected by the use of it will be found fully 25 per cent. in ev-ery person's gas bill. THE GLOBE: THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF CONGRESS,

AND NEWSPAPER FOR THE PEOPLE. It will be seen by the annexed extract from letter of General Washington to David Stewart, dated New York, 17th March, 1790, that the idea of such a paper as T propose to make the Globe originated in the mind of the Father of his Country. He said:

He said:

"It is to be lamented that the editors of the different fazettes in the Union do not more generally and more correctly (instead of stuffing their papers with scurrility and nonsensical declamation, which few would read if they were apprised of the contents) publish the debates in Congress on all great national questions. The principles upon which the difference of opinion arises, as well as the decisions, would then come fully before the public, and afford the best data for its judgment."—Sparks's Writings of Washington, vol. 10, p. 84.

In surrendering my interest in the organ of a great political party, I cherished the purpose of continuing the Congressional Globe, and, if possible, in time, to perfect it into a full history of the action of Congress, giving the debates accurately and fully with the proceedings—all stamped with the verity of an official record. From the passage in the letter of General Washington, which I have quoted, it will be perceived that he thought this office might be combined with that of a regular office might be combined with that of a regular newspaper; and it is certain that the avidity of the public for news of the less important kind greatly contributes to give wing to the weightier matter which may be called Congressional news.

Having succeeded in my purpose of perfecting the reports of the debates in Congress and giving them the official stamp, I now propose to send them abroad, in connection with the news of the day, in such haste as shall outstrip full and accurate intelligence sent from the seat of Government day, in such haste as shall outstrip full and accurate intelligence sent from the seat of Government in any other form whatever. It will even anticipate the scraps of news forwarded to cities within two hundred and fifty miles of Washington by telegraph. Before the events thus transmitted are published in the morning papers, (for instance, of the city of New York,) the Globe containing them will have reached the post office of that city by the Express Mail of the previous night. The process by which this will be effected I now lay before the public.

I will have a corps of sixteen Reporters in Congress; each in succession will take notes during five minutes, then retire, prepare them for the Press, put them slip by ship in the hands of compositors, and thus, while a debate is going on in Congress, it will be put in type, and in a few min-

Congress, it will be put in type, and in a few min-utes after it is ended it will be in print. I shall by this means, be enabled to send by the Express Mail of 5 o'clock p. m. for the East, West, and North, and by that of 9 o'clock p. m. for the South, all the proceedings of Congress up to the ordinary hour of adjournment. Thus the accurate debates of Congress will reach the cities two hundred and fifty miles from the Capitol before their daily morning papers are in circulation.

The miscellaneous news I shall be careful to gather from remote sections of the country by telegraph. I will obtain from the Executive Departments, through official sources, the matters of moment transacted in them, and through agents employed for the purpose, all the city news of con-sequence in sufficient time to be put into the Globe and mailed in the Express Mail trains. In this way I hope to create a new era in the disseminaway I hope to create a new era in the dissemination of news from Washington. Hitherto no newspaper has attempted to give authentic accounts of things done at Washington before the public mind at a distance had received its first impressions form irresponsible telegraphic dispatches, or by letter-writers biased by peculiar views.

Washington has now become so great a centre of political interest during all the year—the proceedings of the Executive Departments and the information collected by them even during the recess of Congress is of so much importance to the interests of every section of the country—that I shall continue the publication of the daily paper permanently, with a view to become the vehicle of the earliest and most correct intelligence.

It is part of my plan to reduce the price of the It is part of my plan to reduce the price of the daily paper to half that of similar daily papers; and thus I hope to extend its circulation so as to invite advertisements. I will publish advertisements of the Government. To subscribers in the cities I hope to submit such terms as will induce them advertise their business in every village through out the Union, where the Globe is sent daily under out the Union, where the Globe is sent daily under the franks of members of Congress, all of whom take it, and some of them a large number of copies.

The installation of a new Administration and a new Congress portends much change in the course of public affairs as the result of the next session. Many vast interests which were brought up in the last Congress were laid over by the Democratic majority to await the action of a Democratic Executive. The new modeling of the tariff; the new land system; the question of giving homesteads, and making every man a freeholder who may choose to become one; the approximation of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans by a national railroad across the territory of the Union; reform in the Army, Navy, and civil offices—all these great questions, with a thousand minor ones, deeply affecting tions, with a thousand minor ones, deeply affecting multitudes of men and every State in the Union. multitudes of men and every State in the Union, will, now being matured by public opinion, come up for the Government's decision. These new issues, cooperating with old ones, coming up to be disposed of by sew actors on the scenes at Washington, will be apt to modify greatly, if not alter essentially the party organizations of the country. To these elements of interest another is likely to be introduced by the interposition of the aginations of Europe. After nearly forty years of peace in Europe there is an evident restlessness that now seems fraught with tendencies threatening now seems fraught with tendencies threatening war; and if war comes, in all likelihood there will follow such universal change that the United States can scarcely hope to escape its vortex. Indeed from late events it is apparent that our government is already drawn into European difficulties. These circumstances are calculated to draw the public mind towards the next Congress with much exectation.

The Daily Globe will be printed on fine paper ouble royal size, with small type, (brevier antonpareil,) at five dollars a year.

The Congressional Globe will also be printed

The Congressional Globe will also be proper a double royal sheet, in book form, royal quarto size, each number containing sixteen pages The Congressional Globe proper will be made up of the proceedings of Congress and the running debates as given by the Reporters. The speeches which members may choose to write out themselves will, together with the messages of the President of the United States, the reports of the President of the United States, the reports of the Executive Departments, and the laws passed by Congress, be added in an Appendix. Formerly I received subscriptions for the Congressional Globe and Appendix separately. But this has not been found satisfactory, inasmuch as it gave an incomplete view of the transactions in Congress; and therefore I have concluded not to sell them apart, considering that neighbors can have the advantage of both by clubbing, in case individuals shall find it too onerous to be at the charge of both. To facilitate the circulation of the Congressional Globe, and cheapen it to subscribers, Congress passed last year a joint resolution making it free of postage. I annex it, as the law may not be accessible to postmasters generally:

Joint Resolution providing for the distribution of the Laws.

be accessible to postmasters generally:

Joint Resolution providing for the distribution of the Laws of Congress and the Debates thereon.

With a view to the chang circulation of the laws of Congress and the debates contributing to the true interpretation thereof, and to make free the communication between the representative and constituent bodies:

Bett resolved by the Sande and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the present session of Congress, the Congressional Globe and Appendix, which contains the laws and the debates thereon, shall pass free through the mails so long as the same shall be published by order of Congress; Throwided, That nothing herein shall be construed to authorize the circulation of the Daily Globe free of postage.

As Leall the Daily Grows at half the price of As I sell the Daily Globs at half the price of similar publications, so the Congressional Globe and Appendix is sold for half the cost of so much composition, press-work, and paper. This I can afford to do, in a smuch as the subscription of Congress almost covers the cost of composition, and this enables me to sell for little more than the cost of press-work and paper. It requires the sale of about 9,000 copies to reimburse expenses. If 500 only were sold, the cost of each copy would be about $104! The debates in the English Parliaabout $104! The debates in the English Parliament cost about eleven times as much as I charge subscribers for the debates in Congress, equal in quantity, and as well reported and printed.

The next session of Congress will be a long one; and it is believed the Congressional Globe for it will reach 4,000 royal quarto pages, as the last long session made 3,812; and the long one before that made 3,901, royal quarto pages—four large volumes each session. If subscribers will be careful to file all the numbers received by them, I will supply any that may miscarry in the mails. This ful to file all the numbers received by them, I will supply any that may miscarry in the mails. This work increases in value as it grows old. The first seventeen volumes will now command three times, and some of the subsequent ones twice, their original subscription price.

The subscription price for the Congressional Globe (including the Appendix and the laws) is give dollars.

Complete indexes will be made out and forwarded to subscribers soon after the session is ended. Subscribers for the Daily should have their money here by the 5th, and for the Congressional Globe by the 15th of December. The money must accompany an order for either the Daily or the Congressional Globe. Bank notes current where a subscriber resides will be received at par.
